DOCTOR SLAIN FROM AMBUSH IN PORTSMOUTH

Prominent Physician Found Dead of Bullet Wound Fired from Long Range.

By The Associated Press

PORTSMOUTH, O., Aug. 2—Dr. George Obrist, 45, prominent Portsmouth physician and surgeon, was found shot to death in the rear of his home here early today. Detective Chief John Smith said it appeared the shot had been fired from long range.

The detective chief said Dr. Obrist was killed by a .22 caliber bullet that struck him back of the left ear and ranged into the skull.

The body was found by the physician's son, George Obrist Jr., 18, shortly after midnight. Young Obrist had driven his car into the garage and started toward the house when he saw his father lying in the yard at the foot of the back steps, Smith reported.

Robbery Discounted

Police immediately threw a cordon around the house but found no trace of a gun wielder. Robbery was discounted as a motive since $1,500 the physician was carrying had not been taken.

Coroner Virgil Fowler reported that death was caused by a gunshot wound but that no reason for the shooting had been determined.

Detective Chief Smith expressed the opinion that Dr. Obrist had been slain from ambush.

Dr. James Wilhelm, a next-door neighbor, reported that he heard a noise at 11:45 p. m. that sounded "like some one had stepped on a board."

Another neighbor reported hearing a noice about the same time that sounded like a firecracker.

Fired from Hedge

Police said the shot apparently was fired from a hedge or from an empty garage on the adjoining property of a neighbor, Arthur H. Bannon, an attorney, who was away from home.

Dr. Obrist was accustomed to returning home around midnight from making professional calls and the family always left the back porch light on. Police pointed out the light made the physician a clear target for a shot from ambush.

Members of the physician's family told police that he had no enemies that any one knew of and that he had never received any threats.

Dr. Obrist was prominent in civic affairs here and looked upon as one of the city's most popular physicians. His father, the late Dr. J. W. Obrist, had practiced medicine here for many years.

Young Obrist found his father's body after he had returned from a county fair and escorted a girl companion to her home.

There were no powder burns about the wound and Detective Smith said the shot apparently had been fired from a rifle at a considerble distance. The bullet

Public Opening of New Isaly Building Set

ISALY'S NEW EAST CENTER STREET PLANT AND RETAIL STORE

East Center St. Plant and Retail Store Structure Completed.

The Isaly Dairy Co. has set Aug. 20 as the formal public opening date for its new plant and retail store located at 375 East Center street. Plans for opening of the new building, which contains one of the most modern dairy plants in this area, call for a public inspection of the working areas where milk is processed.

Manufacturing and processing are now under way at the new plant but the store will not operate until the day of the public opening.

The new plant is a two-story glass brick and light buff building brick structure, the main section of which is 115 feet long and 94 feet wide. A retail store and restaurant occupies a one-story room on the front 74 feet long and 22 feet wide. The building is fireproof, having a reinforced concrete frame.

Offices located in the new building are walled with glass brick, and interior partitions are of heavy corrugated structural glass, practically eliminating the need for artificial lighting during daylight hours.

To House All Operations

Opening of the new building will transfer all manufacturing activities from the North Prospect street plant. The old plant will be used as a cream station. Later this year it is proposed to open a new retail store in the building. It will be similar to other retail stores of the company.

The present retail store on East Center street, immediately west of the new building, will be closed. This structure, which is in an addition to a brick residence, will be torn down. The residence, however, will remain standing. It has been converted into apartments.

Isaly's Marion plant is the latest addition to a network of milk processing plants and stores serving this section of the state.

Complete Modern Equipment

Bottled milk, cream, butter, cottage cheese and ice cream will be produced at the new plant. The ice cream cold room is 1,300 feet square, contains five miles of ammonia pipes and is insulated with 12 inches of spun glass bricks. It is kept at a temperature from 16 to 24 degrees below zero. The combined capacity of ice cream freezers at the plant is 1,300 quarts an hour.

Facilities for processing milk products include a milk separator with a capacity of 7,000 pounds of milk per hour, modern homogenizer machine and milk cooler where milk is stored before delivery. Improvements in handling methods have made it possible to process milk and milk products without being touched by human hands.

In the butter department are large vats for receiving cream, pasteurization coils and a 1,000-pound churn. A butter cutter and wrapper in the department can handle 1,800 pounds per hour, contains heating vats and three 150-gallon cottage cheese vats. Milk is pumped t othe department from the first floor. There is also a condensing tank capable of handling 440 gallons of milk every two hours.

Plans for the new plant were first conceived by the late Charles H. Isaly, founder of the Marion branch of the Isaly Dairy Co. Start of construction work was delayed by material shortages during the war. Work on the bulding was started in November, 1945.

TO RECOMMEND FORD WALKOUT

Union Negotiators Say They'll Ask Strike, Probably Tuesday.

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, Aug. 2—Union negotiators announced after a brief session with Ford Motor Co. officials today that they will recommend a strike Tuesday for 107,000 production workers.

Richard T. Leonard, UAW-CIO vice president and national Ford director, announced the union negotiators' decision and reported no progress toward a settlement of a pension plan and union liability dispute.

"We will recommend that a strike be granted," Leonard said, "and that it not be delayed longer than necessary."

A union spokesman earlier said that a walkout in some 40 Ford plants across the nation had been tentatively set for some time Tuesday.

To Meet Sunday

Ford and the union scheduled another last-ditch negotiating session for 10:30 a. m. Sunday.

Already Ford had rejected a union demand for a contract clause protecting it against "financial liability" under the new law, and the UAW-CIO had turned down as "unacceptable" a Ford counter-offer.

Union To Meet

The international executive board of the UAW-CIO, which speaks for 107,000 Ford production workers, was scheduled to meet this afternoon to act on a request for strike approval. Heads of the UAW's Ford department made the request.

Union sources have said that, if the board approves, a strike will be called to take effect next week, probably Monday or Tuesday. The executive board's assent is necessary under union law.

Company and union negotiators broke up a conference late yesterday after reporting "no progress."

Shortly before Ford had ordered in 30,000 men on overtime to work today. A management spokesman said the company wanted to build up a materials stockpile "in the event of a strike." Ordinarily Saturday is a holiday in the five-day week.

In several quarters the situation was described as the most serious between Ford and the 20 From Here Go to Columbus To Cheer Local Soapbox Racers.

Some 20 Marionites left here early this morning bound for Columbus to watch the two Marion boys compete in the Columbus district soapbox derby.

The Marion cheering section included parents and relatives of the two local winners, Lowell Schlecht, 15, of 416 West Columbia street, city champion, and David McCreight, 12, of 140 Kenmore avenue, junior division winner. Dr. Dan Murphy and Jack Hanley, Lions club members who helped stage the Marion race July 16.

Both racers passed the inspection held yesterday at Columbus and their cars were impounded there, with others who passed, until race time today.

The Columbus course measures about 900 feet in length and is on Grandview hill. Racers, which start from a special ramp, not used yesterday, will run down the approximately 45 degree grade of Grandview avenue and cross Goodale boulevard before they coast to a stop in the safety zone.

Both boys, back at their homes last night, declared the course "to be awfully rough." Lowell said he

Holiday-Bound Writer Forgets Hughes, Taft, Price of Chops

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug 2—The time has come again to say thanks to the kind people who have put up with my pieces for the paper during the last year (with only an occasional threat of mayhem) and to promise them one month, a blessed 30 days, of relief.

My bride has bought one of those long skirts and makes her look peculiar She also has a hat that resembles an over-sized toadstool I'm ready, too, I've had my shoes resoled We are about to board a flying machine for Guatemala

There we will sit beside Lago Atitlan which is 6,000 feet up in the mountains and said to be one of the most beautiful lakes in the world and do nothing whatever We won't even sit we'll loll in hammocks And if we get tired of resting in one position, our specially hired Indians (one for each of us) will turn us over, gently

No Pencil, No Telephone

I'll have no pencil no paper, no telephone I'll not think about Sen Robert A Taft, the price of pork chops in Friendship Heights the dancing girls of Howard Hughes or the blunders of the war assets administration

My only thinking will concern the folks who restrained themselves from poisoning my oatmeal this last year I mean fellows like the president of the White Pass and Yukon railway of Skagway, Alaska, who reported that an item I did about the beaten-up, broken-down shaky-railed Alaska railroad didn't do his railway any good

He wasn't sore Just hurt because I didn't point out that his railroad had nothing to do with the government's Alaska railroad The manager of the latter indicated in testimony before the house appropriations committee that he was in charge of perhaps the worst railroad in the world I didn't even know that there were two railways in Alaska, and I hereby tender my apologies to the White Pass and Yukon

Grateful for Jam

I am grateful to the lady in Satsonville, Calif, who sent me two jars of loganberry jam, to the president of the Studebaker Corp, who enjoyed a little spoofery at his expense in print, and to a couple of dozen haberdashers from all over

They took pity on my ragged state and shipped, C O D, enough cotton union suits to let me for the next 20 years

The radio boys, frequency modulation division deserve a bow They weren't bitter about my item concerning the necessity of climbing to my roof to tune the aerial whenever I wanted to play my new FM set They've been sending engineers regularly to my house to see what is wrong Their verdict something peculiar about the air waves on Tunlaw road

Pen Makers Cooperate

The ball point fountain pen manufacturers, who were perturbed about my inability to get action from their products, are bringing out new models I'll give them another chance

Joseph B Danzinsky the Washington representative of the American Association of Mayonnaise Manufacturers, gets a pat on the back He came up smiling when I found him scraping mayonnaise of his sliced tomatoes in the senate cafeteria A bug goes to Fred Orsinger, who retires from the government today after an epoch of wild-eyed press agentry in behalf of his beloved fish in the federal aquarium

And I wish I had the space to mention a few more long-suffering citizens, who managed to laugh at their own foibles in print As for the ones who threatened to chase me with meataxes, they can jump in Lake Atitlan I won't even turn around to watched 'em splash

"Let Europe Go Red," Congressman Suggests

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug 2—Rep O Konski (R-Wis) said today he believes that "perhaps the best solution for Europe is to let it go communistic—and get its belly full of it"

"The Marshall plan is based on saving the people in those European countries from communism," O'Konski told a reporter.

"That is the very threat that some of them are holding over us and blackjacking us with They say, in effect, that if we don't send over financial aid they will go communistic

"The quickest and surest way to convince those countries that communism has nothing to offer is to let them adopt it for a whole and let them see how they like it"

Ohio Hospital Survey Begins

Work Starts on Data Needed To Furnish Master Plan for Aid.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O, Aug 2—State health department workers are going through the facts of Ohio's economic and social life in an effort to find out just what the cities and villages need in new or enlarged hospitals to take care of their sick and injured

When the answer is found, a master plan will go to the surgeon general's office in Washington and federal money will come back to match local funds—$1 federal to $2 local—to put up the buildings and buy the equipment where it is most needed

Dr E V Turner, director of a hospital survey authorized by the last legislature to make Ohio communities eligible for the federal aid, predicted today that the master plan would be ready around Jan 1. Then portions of Ohio's annual allocation of $2,692,000 will become available

"We will give 'a' priority to projects where they are most needed," he said. "If a community wants to build a new hospital but it already has pretty good service, it will get a 'd' priority"

To determine need, Dr Turner and his assistants are studying all available information on the economic status of the people in all communities seeking help the birth and death rates, and any other information bearing on the probable volume of hospital treatment needed

"The communities have to watch out and not go off half cocked with their plans hopes" he warned 'Some of them want to build 100-bed hospitals without realizing that they cost $1 000 000 apiece and another $450 000 a year to operate They've got to figure out whether they can pay that much"

An inventory of the state's hospital facilities showed about 450 institutions some of them rest or nursing homes eligible for aid under the federal program

The federal program is set up much like the public roads administration which helps states build highways officials said Congress has made a contractual obligation to help out the projects, they said and the money necessary will be appropriated whenever the surgeon general presents them to congress

The sale first in the 1,000 room hotel's 32 year history, was completed yesterday a few hours after a suit for $500 000 had been filed by Fifty West Broad Street, Inc, owners of the building housing the hotel's Wallick addition, charging the hotel company with making unauthorized deductions from rental payments over a 10 year period

Palmer Suddaby of Cleveland took over as general manager immediately after the contract was signed

5,000 Labor Disputes Await Action by Reorganized NLRB

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 — The new national labor relations board (NLRB steps into a hatful of problems.

It has on hand about 5,000 unsettled cases before it starts looking at new ones coming up under the new Taft-Hartley labor law.

James Marlow

Under the previous big labor law, the Wagner act which congress passed in 1935, the NLRB was a three-man affair.

The new law makes it a five-man board. Three of the old members remain and two new ones have been added.

The Wagner act itself is practically unchanged by the Taft-Hartley law. That new law just adds things mostly to the old law.

15,000 Cases To Settle

In the year between July 1, 1946 and June 30, 1947, the old NLRB was hit with almost 15,000 cases.

It got rid of all but about 5,000. Those 5,000 have to be handled in some way although some can be tossed out without much trouble.

For example: about 150 of the 5,000 cases involve disputes about foremen who wanted to form unions.

Under the Wagner act foremen could form unions. But the new Taft-Hartley law says that if foremen form unions, they get no rights under the law.

So—those 150 foremen cases are thrown out.

And if the board can get fast agreement on some other cases, it will try to heave them out, too.

Brand New Ones Set

But the new board, in addition to the 5,000 cases it has now, will be in for a brand new kind of case.

For example:

Under the Wagner act a union could accuse an employer of unfair labor practices and the board had to settle such charges.

But, under the Wagner act, an employer couldn't charge a union with unfair labor practices. Under the new law he can.

So now the board will have unfair labor practice charges from unions and bosses.

Here's another example:

Under the old law the board didn't have to consider jurisdictional disputes (disputes between two unions over doing a certain kind of work), boycotts, and strikes to force a boss to violate the law.

But those problems are all provided for under the new law and the board will have to handle them as they come along.

MARION LIEUTENANT TRIES FOR ACADEMY

Harley Mooney Takes Examination in Italy.

A Marion service man was among the young men taking the civil service examinations for appointment to West Point or the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis from the Eighth congressional district on July 21, reports show. He is Second Lt. Harley F. Mooney Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Mooney of 366 Fahey street, now in service at Trieste, Italy. The test for training at West Point was conducted by his commanding officer.

Several young men in the district took the test conducted at Findlay and Upper Sandusky. Although six applicants in Marion signified their intention of taking the test by filling out applications to be forwarded to Washington, none showed up on the day of the examination, F. A. Bryant, representative of the civil service board here stated.

Lt. Mooney, who was 19 years old July 11, has been stationed in Trieste since September last year. He was graduated from Harding High school in 1945 and enlisted for military service in October of that year. He received his basic training at Fort Bliss, Texas, and received his officers' training at Fort Benning, Ga.

Robert W. Arn of Kenton, who took the examination for entrance into Annapolis a year ago this summer has been accepted at the academy.

"How Is the Cow?"—Middies Have To Know

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

ANNAPOLIS, Aug. 2—Learning the technique of atomic warfare at sea doesn't worry a midshipman in his first year at the U. S. Naval academy.

But it is highly important that he know by rote the answers to certain important questions incessantly asked him by upper classmen.

For example, if he is asked what a ship weighs when she leaves port, he is expected to stand smartly at attention and reply:

"Her anchor, Sir."

And if a third year man should inquire with feigned innocence what time it is, the hapless plebe must answer rapidly but distinctly:

Hal Boyle

"Sir, I am greatly embarrassed and deeply humiliated that due to unforeseen circumstances over which I have no control, the inner workings and hidden mechanisms of my chronometer are in such innaccord with the great sidereal movement with which time is commonly reckoned, that I cannot with any degree of accuracy state the exact time, Sir. But without fear of being very far wrong, I will state that it is five minutes, eight seconds and two ticks past the fourth hour, Sir."

How Long In Navy?

Should an upper classman then solicitously wish to know how long the embryo officer has been in the Navy, he must rattle back:

"All me bloomin' life, Sir! Me mother was a mermaid, me father was King Neptune. It was born on the crest of a wave and rocked in the cradle of the deep. Seaweed and barnacles are me clothes. Every tooth in me head is a marlan-spike; the hair on me head is hemp. Every bone in me body is a spar, and when I spits, I spits tar. I's hard, I is. I am, I are."

He must also learn that the only answer to the question "How long is a Chinaman?" is: "Yes, Sir." And the standard reply if asked how long is a piece of string: "No, Sir."

There is, of course, to be no levity about the whole business.

Answers In Book

The answers to these and other timely questions are all put down for the plebe in a little book called "Reef Points" which introduces him to time-honored customs of the academy. It is all part of the unofficial indoctrination into the spirit of discipline that pervades the U. S. Navy and the military services of all countries, the first step toward accepting obedience to higher authority.

That is part of the long theory behind ridiculously asking "How is the cow?" and gravely listening while a beginning "middle" repeats time after time in solemn absurdity:

"Sir, she walks, she talks, she's full of chalk. The lacteal fluid extracted from the female of the bovine species is highly prolific to the 'nth degree."

Yes, it sounds silly. Yet sometimes in combat a naval officer is ordered to complete a dangerous task that mistakenly seems as ridiculous to him as that query of his plebe days.

But high decisions aren't for him to question. The Navy has to work on the basic principle that, when the cards are down and life itself is at stake, the officer will always "tell how the cow is."

The goal of every plebe, of course, is to get to be the head admiral—so everybody in the Navy has to report to him on the condition of the cow.

YOUR HEALTH

By BERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Arthritis

We do not know exactly what causes arthritis and the other so-called rheumatic diseases such as fibrositis, or inflammation of the fibrous tissues of the body such as tendons, ligaments and the tissues around joints.

But the things which seem to set the stage for their development are numerous. According to Dr. Loring T. Swaim, of Boston, they include not only such physical things as infections in the teeth, tonsils or sinuses, but emotional upheavals and fatigue. Thus, he points out, overwork, quarrels, resentments, and fears may all contribute to the development of painful swelling and inflammation of the joints and muscles.

Other factors which may play a role in bringing on such disorders are disturbances in the body's chemical processes; enemia or a lessening of the coloring in the blood, and lack of vitamins, especially A, C and B-complex.

Physical methods of treatment, such as rest, heat and massage, are of benefit in these various rheumatic disorders.

Rest is necessary so that the body tissues may be given a chance to rebuild themselves. The circulation is improved through periods of rest. The patient may be taught to relax so that the tension or contraction of the muscle is less during rest periods. This relaxation may help to relieve pain due to muscle spasm. Constant spasm will tend to keep the joints sore. In some cases, the joints may be put at complete rest by the use of braces or casts. The doctor will decide when this is necessary.

Heat also plays an important role in relaxing the muscles, and improves the blood supply to damaged joints. The heat may be applied in various ways, such as by means of electric pad, hot water bottle, cloths soaked in hot water and wrung out, or by means of an electric treatment known as diathermy which produces heat deep in the tissues. Hot baths are also helpful. The sweating produced by such baths aids in getting rid of body waste.

Massage is helpful if it is used on the muscles and not the joints. Massage is a mild form of exercise and helps to relax the muscles, if it is not given too strenuously. It improves the circulation, and will not make the patient overtired if given in a gentle manner. Soreness should not follow massage.

The physical method of treatment for joint disorders and inflammation of the fibrous tissue may be expected to shorten the duration of the illness and aid in the recovery of the patient.

Of course, such treatment should always be carried out under the direction of a physician.

CLUB HEARS REPORT ON RESUSCITATOR

Exchange Members Hold First Noon Meeting.

A report of the Exchange club's program to purchase a resuscitator for the sheriff's office was heard at a noonday meeting Thursday at Hotel Harding.

One has been ordered and plans are underway to obtain for city police. At present the fire department is the only local unit having a resuscitator and this would be inadequate in case of an emergency involving several persons. The sheriff's will be primarily for use in the county.

Members of the club decided to continue to hold their regular weekly meetings at noon. Thursday was the first meeting at the new time.

Next Move Not Taft's

DANIEL J. TOBIN, president of International Teamsters Union, is challenging Senator Taft in the union's magazine to enforce the Taft-Hartley act. After publishing an article that he says violates the act, Tobin thunders:

"The next move is up to Taft. Let him file charges and then he can go into court and find out what the Constitution means."

The article then goes on to say that the union's attorneys have advised it that the provision of the law forbidding political acvitity by unions is unconstitutional.

President Tobin is in technical error when he implies that Senator Taft is going to take care of violations of the new labor management act. Violations of law are the business of the national labor relations board and the United States department of justice. Congressmen make laws; they don't enforce them.

The Teamsters' president, who undoubtedly knows this, also must know another fundamental fact about the United States: that lawyers do not rule on the constitutionality of laws that minorities want to expunge. Questions of constitutionality are decided by courts

The Taft-Hartley act set up a joint committee of congress to make sure that the law would be enforced. Tobin won't need to wait for Senator Taft's individual attention.

Advance Notice

THE Dominican ambassador's announcement that a three-ship invasion expedition has left Cuba bound for the Dominican republic introduces a new motif in the technique of combating revolution. Apparently Dominican Dictator Trujillo wants to expose the movement against his government before the plotters take overt action.

There had been reports that an invasion force was training in Cuba to force a coup in Trujillo's domain. This tight little dictatorship recently entrenched itself more firmly with an "election" comparable to the one held last month in Franco's Spain.

The Dominican spokesman describes the reported task force as being made up of "Communist revolutionaries," a convenient term of opprobrium. The Trujillo dictatorship has nothing to recommend it. Revolution is what that type of oppressive government inevitably breeds. Too often, however, revolution in a Latin American country only means one dictatorship is being replaced by another.

Summer Doldrums

THIS is the season when the news pulsebeat slackens. Congress has gone home. The Washington news budget consists principally of committee hearings and protestations of Communists that their constitutional rights are being violated.

The sound of hushed voices is heard at Lake Success, interspersed by occasional angry cresendoes in which a voice can be heard repeating the Russian equivalent of "no." Across the nation, things are so quiet you could hear a flying saucer or a hemline drop. With nothing better to do, political reporters parse the sentences and analyze the voice inflections of possible presidential candidates.

There are distant sounds of gunfire in China and in Indonesia and trouble in Palestine, but on the surface the rest of the world is fairly quiescent. John Bull nervously fingers his collar and says things will get worse before they get better. France eyes her Communists warily, but all is quiet along the Seine. As usual, the Balkans are working like a batch of four-day-old home brew, but it's a quiet ferment.

This is quite a change from August, 1943. The Americans were hammering away at Catania in Sicily and Munda airfield on New Georgia. Allied bombers were blasting Hamburg. Italian leaders were beginning to talk frantically of peace.

On the home front, the advantages of joining the Wacs and the Waves were enthusiastically enumerated and draft directors decided they would have to induct 300,000 fathers by the end of the year. John L. Lewis was taking his annual wage dispute too the NRLB.

News doldrums this August? Well, yes. But after several Augusts like 1943, a few quiet Augusts will be welcome.

Washington G. O. P. Cautious

By RAYMOND MOLEY

State's Party Heads Undecided on '48 Nominee.

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 2—Washington Republican leaders have no positive choice for the presidential nomination in 1948. Their attitude can be summed up thus: friendly to all, but no commitment—yet.

This position was conveyed to Governor Thomas E. Dewey at the round-up in Bozeman, Montana, by the Washington national committeeman, Harlan I. Peyton.

Peyton was selected for his present work only a short time ago. His experience in politics has not been lengthy or especially active. He is a business man and civic leader who has served several terms as president of the Spokane Chamber of Commerce. He knows how to organize and get people to work together. Harmony and confidence seem to prevail among Washington Republicans. They have taken five of the six house seats and one senatorship. They hope to elect a governor next year, and the chances seem good. They are confident that they can carry the state for any Republican candidate for president. Hence, they are cautious about commitments now.

Seek Favorite Son

In order to avoid a decision before the Philadelphia convention, they are looking around for a favorite son. One suggestion for such a choice is Eric A. Johnston, the energetic Spokane business man who made a national reputation as president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Spokane Republicans, however, prefer as a favorite son their new Senator, Harry Cain. This issue has not been decided.

Johnston himself, who succeeded Will Hays in the motion picture world, probably has no feeling that a Republican convention would select him either for president or vice president. He would probably rather be in a position to move into a cabinet post, such as secretary of the interior, under any newly-elected Republican president. His popularity is greater in the nation generally than it is here in Spokane.

Dewey Strength Uncertain

Although Dewey lost Washington in 1944, he has always been strong in the state. In earlier days, James M. Bailey sparked a lively Dewey movement which had some of the amateur and independent enthusiasm of the famous Willkie clubs of 1940. But Bailey is dead, and there is no thriving Dewey leadership. There is a belief in Washington, as in other states, that Dewey has the best chance for nomination. Hence, there is grave doubt about Taft or Stassen. But if either of these Dewey opponents should develop major strength in the months to come, the party here would leave the New York governor.

John Bricker, who toured the state as vice presidential candidate in 1944, made a much more warm and lasting impression than did Dewey. There were vital errors in handling the Dewey appearances—those little mistakes which loom large in politics.

Democrats Split

Washington Democrats are badly divided. Governor Mon C. Wallgren has lost ground in his party, despite his great friendship with President Truman. If, as is rumored, the President will take Wallgren as his running mate, it woud be a distinct relief to the Democrats here. The Wallace followers are sore and sullen. And Truman will not get anything like the Roosevelt vote. Republicans are therefore confident and cautious. Their real choice may not appear until the second ballot in Philadelphia.

Just a Minute

By JACK TARVER

He's Used to the Fantastic

Congress is investigating Howard Hughes, the plane and movie maker.

Some senators seem to think that when Hughes made "The Outlaw," it was largely autobiography.

Hughes and Henry Kaiser spent $18,000,000 on a flying boat to carry 700 people. It was obvious from the beginning that this would be the world's largest airplane or history's biggest boondoggle.

One of Hughes' critics now terms the project "fantastic," an adjective that should have been dropped from the dictionary the day after Hiroshima.

We are living in the atomic era, when the only thing impossible is to define the possible.

That 700-person airplane looked good at the time. Even if it wouldn't fly, the government figured it would help with the housing shortage.

As for Hughes, it was only natural that he should be thought of in connection with an undertaking of such magnitude. After all, isn't he the man who discovered Jane Russell?

B-17 Aluminum Makes Rings for Milady

MINNEAPOLIS—War surplus aluminum tubing from B-17's is being used to make novel costume jewelry rings that match colors of women's clothing.

Two Minneapolis veterans have worked out an aluminum color application that is color fast, and have bought enough tubing to make nearly 1,000,000 rings. To date they've turned out thousands, in six colors and three sizes.

The veterans, Clinton Carlson and George Armstrong, have incorporated and made their wives secretary and treasury of Clinton-George, Inc.

If the rings sell well, the firm plans to bring out five other color costume items.

Competing With Owls

By FRANK TRIPP

IN THE country, everyday incidents depict man's pagan cruelty because of ignorance or his aversion for harmless creatures, most of them his friends. Superstition and squeamishness cause him to abhor them.

The aversion is not confined to city folks. It is strangely present in many country people who were brought up among the maligned dwellers in earth, rocks and trees.

The common fallacy that toads cause warts is typical of the superstitions. So is the belief that bats and swallows carry bedbugs; that snakes are slimy; that the buzzing "darning needle" will sew up children's ears; that crickets destroy as do moths—an almost endless list of libel.

In the category of the misunderstood comes the owl. Relatively few people have had contact with owls, which may explain the bird's reputation for wisdom. Ordinarily he keeps out of trouble. This he never could do if he hung around with humans.

If you have had experience with so much as a single hungry, persistent owl you can guess what's coming.

Where we live half the year there is plenty of wild life. Most of the dwellers are just second cousins to the country. The birds and the animals must laugh their heads off at us. Even we who aim to be tolerant pull some pretty odd capers trying to compete with them.

When came the owls, who leave the woods seldom, there was consternation approaching the arrival of a pestilence. They put our synthetic country community on the bum.

The sub-teen-agers started the panic. They were spending the evening alone. They heard a man breathing. He must be right in the room; certainly in the next room. The kids ran for help. At the next house down the beach they took their father from a card game. Other brave men went with him.

Stealthily the posse entered the afflicted domicile; with great caution; their backs to the wall, like they'd seen in the movies. Presently they too heard the invader breathing in the dark. He must have asthma or something.

Then there was a telltale burst which revealed the hiding place. The man dashed to the balcony to grapple with the ruffian. Behold, there were three of them. They sat on the railing—three bespectacled gentlemen of the night—three wise old owls.

The discovery didn't solve the problem. Owls can find queer places to perch and make their weird whoopee. They hung around for a week. One night they staged a kind of special event, a clambake maybe, and must have all got tight. Anyway they put sense into that silly expression, "drunk as an owl." I now believe it can happen.

There was no sleep. Women went forth in sheer nighties and tried to throw water on them. Men took pot shots at the place the serenaders were last seen. Trees and bushes were riddled but no casualties recorded at daylight.

From house to house came ugly complaints, "those damned owls." Nearer morning the expletives became more convincing. By dawn they reached the profanity stage.

Brother, you may have spent the night cursing a neighbor's blaring radio. Sister, you may thank your husband snores. Soldier, you may have strained your eyes bloodshot for sight of the enemy in the dark. But if you've never spent a few nights with owls you've never been nowhere nor heard nothing.

Still the owl is man's friend. He is one of nature's best rodent traps. He hunts nights for rats and mice. If he would converse less about it he might catch more. Surely he'd have more friends.

Promptly the community killjoy expounded. She always has a superstition that fits. She could throw cold water on a New Orleans mardi gras.

According to her, misfortune will befall the house where a screech owl stops. But weeks have passed and no plague greater than her credulity has beset us.

Clarence Hart of South Prospect street was the 26th person to vote by absent ballot in the Aug. 10 primary election, records in the office of the board of election showed.

A movement started for establishing a workhouse in Marion was meeting with favorable consideration by the county commissioners. It was a result of inability to come to acceptable terms with management of other workhouses.

Announcement was made that Howitzer company of Marion ranked second the week before in a review of 60 Ohio National Guard troops by Governor Donahey at Camp Perry. A Marietta company was first.

President Coolidge, at his summer vacation headquarters in Rapid City, S. D. issued his memorable announcement: "I do not choose to run for President in Nineteen Twenty-eight." It was typewritten on sheets of paper handed to newspaper correspondents and no amplifying statement was made.

The Dewey, Taft Contest

By MARK SULLIVAN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 — The putting forward by Ohio Republicans of Senator Taft for the Republican presidential nomination is really not modified by Mr. Taft's determination not to decide for some time whether to be a formal candidate. Mr. Taft is a possibility and is one of the two principal ones, the other being Governor Dewey. The picture of the Republican situation is perfectly clear. Rarely have two men been more plainly in the lead and so comparatively equal in apparent strength.

Such situations in the past have sometimes ended in victory by one or the other, sometimes in the two killing each other off, with the nomination going to some third contender. But that is for the future. What is of interest now is these two men and their respective positions. By circumstances and personality they are formidable persons. Their relation to each other and what takes place as between them, is momentous for the country.

Senator Taft has created an issue between the two. He says he is going to discuss national questions, will make several formal addresses for that purpose; and he emphasizes that "these matters should be freely discussed throughout the country; particularly by Republicans." That is a challegene to Mr. Dewey. He has refrained from frequent discussion of national issues and implies that he may continue to refrain. He says he has no present plan for making speeches outside New York State. Apparently, if there is to be an intra-Republican Lincoln-Douglas debate it must develop later.

Affected by Circumstances

On this point the difference between the two men is partly determined by their respective circumsances. Mr. Dewey has two public positions. He is governor of the largest state, and he was the Republican candidate for president in 1944. In the latter role Mr. Dewey, if he chose, could take responsibility for party leadership on national and foreign issues. The opportunity that goes with titular party leadership was taken advantage of by presidential candidate preceding Governor Dewey. Wendell Willkie, after 1940, and ex-Governor Landon after 1936, repeatedly expressed their views of what party policy should be.

From this Governor Dewey has abstained, devoting himself to his primary responsibility, which was to the people of the state that had elected him governor. His administration of the state government created public esteem for him and is a reason for much of the following he has throughout the country.

Acts and Speaks Clearly

Senator Taft's forthrightness about discussing public questions is determined by both his official position and his personality. When the new Republican congress took over last January, Mr. Taft was the oustanding leader in the senate, both officially and informally. As such, national questions were his daily meat and drink. He not only took on the responsibilities that accrued to his position but voluntarily took on some that seemed to him necessary. By his own choice he took the chairmanship of the labor committee of the senate in which the extremely controversial labor legislation would be initially formulated Senator Taft's rugged forthrightness and candor are such as to make it impossible for him to give thought to prudence or caution about taking responsibility or the frank and forceful expression of views.

For Governor Dewey not expressing himself frequently on public questions there is, up to the present time, some justification. It was not likely that he, busy as governor, could have as much familiarity with the public questions under discussion in congress as Senator Taft and others who were in the midst of the debate. It was quite possible that the Republicans in congress might not have welcomed any appearance of attempted leadership from outside the body. True they by their own initiative sought the views of ex-president Hoover. But Mr. Hoover had a special status as respects information and in the general regard for him, not merely as a former President but as one having the elevated qualities symbolized in the phrase "elder statesman."

Hard to Remain Silent

Now, however, Mr. Dewey is a candidate for the presidential nomination. That is in itself a position entailing responsibility. The responsibility includes equipment for and willingness to discuss the public questions which would confront Mr. Dewey if he should become president. One of Mr. Dewey's strong qualities is diligent preparation for the tasks he takes on, and running for the presidential nomination is a task. Mr. Dewey can hardly fail to take notice of demands for public discussion which not only will be continued by Senator Taft but will be made by ex-Governor Stassen and others.

Letters for Special Delivery

MR. AVERELL HARRIMAN,
Secretary of Commerce, Washington, D. C.

My Dear Mr. Harriman—The papers say that the Committee of Nineteen which is to look into this country's capacity to do all our foreign lending and underwriting has started on the job in a big way and that it will "make a study unmatched in history." Fine and dandy! Such study to find out where the bottom of the barrel is, what's between it and the top, how far the bunghole should be and whether multiple spigots are advisable is certainly overdue, but And it will comfort most Americans to feel for the first time in many years that "Stop, look and listen" is replacing the slogan "Shoot the works, let the poorhouse come when it may."

Nobody wants Uncle Sam to turn into Old Man Scrooge. Sam isn't the type. He will always be a four-square human being with his heart in the right place. But it is time we bl[ue]ted the picture of him as a big, soft, Mr. Easy-Come, Easy-Go, an international Butter and Egg Man who writes checks without balancing his account, fills Christmas stockings through a [c]hute and never worries about correct bookkeeping.

Your committee of Nineteen, you say, is going to check and double check on the country's resources, supplies, deficiencies, stocks on hand, cash in the bank, accounts collectible and all that sort of thing. In short it will take a look into Uncle Sam's pants pockets, see what's there, note whether there are any undarned socks and make certain that the contents are money and not largely laundry checks, old mutuel tickets, parking lot stubs and marbles.

Wonderful, say I, but what will be the reaction of the average American" You had better go slow. It will be hard for him after the past few decades to stand the idea of horse sense, [th]rift and correct bookkeeping in money matters. A whole generation or nearly so has grown up in the belief that only fuddleduddies kept books, squared accounts and took any stock in the adages, "A fool and his money are soon parted," or "Take care of the pennies and the dollars will take care of the sales taxes."

It will take time for a lot of folk to get used to the notion of giving a thought to tomorrow. You have no idea, Mr Harriman, how completely the adage about saving up for a rainy day has been scrapped in favor of a general indorsement of Al Jolson's song that it is never raining raindrops but always rains vi-o-lets.

In your check of barrel contents please also check on the national baloney supplies. They have been too abundant. There has been too much hasenpfeifer and goose grease around, too. And above all let's know exactly how the country is fixed in the matter of an immediate supply of brains, horse sense and respect for the law of gravitation.

And see if you can get the Committee of Nineteen to file an official report on the question not only whether there IS a Santa Claus but whether there is supposed to be one in every American home and two in every garage.

Sincerely,

ELMER

Personally this department doesn't think it sensational to hear that big parties were thrown for "the brass" and for Washington officials of war contractors. They were common knowledge at the time and you couldn't go into a nightery or banquet hall of distinction without seeing one. It's the high cost that shocks. We had no idea pretty dinner companions were so high and our thought at the moment is that it was a darned shame OPA didn't control 'em. In the next war let's fix it so that no war contractor or his press agent can get girls without red and blue point coupons.

Now that the Army and Navy have been merged, so to speak, how's chances of a pair of sailor's pants cut like army pants?

Antidote for Clutter

By TRUMAN TWILL

Every once in a while when the clutter on the attic steps, the litter on the mantel, the collection of junk that got stranded on the cellar stairs, the trash on the window sills and the assortment of cast-off items in the table drawer testify to the difficulty of having a place for everything and keeping everything in its place, it's a relief to think about the two or three houses everybody has seen in which housekeeping is no problem.

In our favorite house that isn't kept at all but just lived in, the trash comes right up to the threshold of the front door and spills over. No one ever rummages through drawers, closets, book cases, or shelves to find anything; the searcher cleans off a chair, sits down in it and surveys the surrounding junk until he sees what he wants. This is a great time-saver.

All the current magazines, as well as those a year old or older, are within reach. For a person with a mind thirsting for knowledge, this particular house is a revelation in accidental stimulation: he can sit down anywhere and find within reach such diversified reading matter as The Congressional Record, comic books, popular texts on astronomy, reports of the President's commission on universal military training, studies of war atrocities, The London Times, Capper's Weekly, The World Almanac, a 1930 census report, Roget's Thesaurus, mail order catalogs, a French dictionary, instructions for knitting a sea boot and a handful of pamphlets on the United Nations.

In this particular house there happens to be children, and their toys are just as accessible as any of the other contents. One may play with plastic airplanes during lunch. All bedrooms contain a scattered representation of miniature automobiles, construction sets, coloring books and crayons. It is not uncommon to find a water-color book in the bathroom, a tricycle in the kitchen, a pair of roller skates in the dining room and so on. A visitor causes no panic because the house is simply a mess; it's always a mess, therefore visitors are always welcome.

All this, of course, is unbearable for housekeepers, who forget that for a few rarely-privileged persons housekeeping itself is unbearable. These persons are not sloppy so much as they are preoccupied with more important matters, such as questions of the day, the mastery of some special wrinkle that has caught their interest, the completion of some task that could be put off indefinitely if one could be certain of living forever.

The significant thing about such persons is their evident happiness. They have learned to put first things first. They are not slaves to the fetish of neatness and order. They do not even see the junk they jump across and wade through because they are looking all the time at their ultimate objective, the stars overhead—their own shining purpose, which is to turn everything that is good to their benefit and the benefit of others, and never mind the clutter underfoot.

It would be possible to get aluminum from any kind of clay, but extraction from bauxite ore is so much cheaper that they are used exclusively.

Power of the Gospel

A Sermonette

By REV. JOEL HARMAN

Pastor of First Pilgrim Holiness Church.

WHEN we speak of the Gospel, we speak of something that is more than something of importance, it is something that is more than that.

The Apostle Paul in his epistle to the Romans, 1:16, says, "For I am not ashamed of the Gospel of Christ: for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth; to the Jew first, and also to the Greek." Now it is very true that there were other reasons that he could have mentioned that he was ashamed of, besides some things he had done in the past that he now was sorry for, such as persecuting the Christians. But he is speaking of something that he had found so great and wonderful, so powerful, that he had been so affected by it, that he could say, "I am not ashamed of it."

From the time he had consented to the stoning of the saintly Stephen he began to feel the affects of it. Again, as he met the Christ whom he was persecuting on his way to Damascus, he began to realize more and more the power of that Gospel that he was not ashamed of, and also the power of a risen Christ. While on this great mission, as he thought to arrest all who had accepted this Gospel and believed in a risen Lord, he began to see that there was something worth while which caused the Christians to stand the persecution. While he, like many today, was in a way "that seemeth right unto man, but the end thereof was the way of death." He had many reasons to say he was not ashamed of the Gospel. First, because of the great change it had made in his own life. It had turned this man with tiger-like nature into a lamb-like man.

Before his conversion he could have boasted of his ancestors, as we quote from his epistle to the church at Philippi, 3:5, "Circumcised the eighth day, of the stock of Israel, of the tribe of Benjamin, an Hebrew of the Hebrews; as touching the law a Pharisee." But this good record had never made a change in him in the least.

Yes, he had been educated at the feet of Gamaliel and had received great learning, but that had not changed him, it had only made him think the more of himself. But when he came in touch with the Christ of the Gospel, it wrought such a change in his life and conduct that forever afterwards his attitude toward the Christians was changed. As we read from his epistle to the Galatians, 1:23, "But they had heard only that he which persecuted us in time past now preacheth the faith which once he destroyed." "Yes, he had been a Christ rejector and a persecutor of this way, but now he is preaching and standing for the thing he was trying to do away with. We might as well try to stop the Ohio river in the time of a great flood as to try to do away with the Gospel. It is here and will be here until the trumpet blows. Infidels and skeptics, unbelievers of every description for centuries have tried to do away the Bible and the Gospel that is therein, but they have failed and always will.

The devil received such a shock on the day of Pentecost when 120 received the baptism of the Holy Ghost and fire, and 3,000 were swept into the kingdom, he has never got over it and he has raged ever since. The Apostles never got over it. They stood by the Gospel; and while the disciples were scattered abroad through persecution, they spread Holy fire wherever they went. We speak about the atomic bomb, powerful automobiles, the great locomotives that run over our railroads and great aircrafts, but Paul speaks of something that has gone into the darkest corners of the earth and changed the hearts of men, turned the heathern with all his superstition into Christian. While these powerful things that we have mentioned many times destroy men's lives, here is one thing that has been provided through the atonement that saves life and prepares men for a better world than this. No, the Ethiopian can't change his skin, nor the leopard his spots, neither can man himself make himself good within his own power.

But thank God, the Gospel of the Lord Jesus Christ can. Christ's mission into this world was to give us something worthwhile. Men may say it is just a theory, but the Scriptures say it is the power of God unto salvation. Why does it change men and women? It is, and does, what the scripture says it is. May God help every on that may read this article, who has not accepted Christ and believed the Gospel, do it today in full repentance and faith towards God, and in the Lord Jesus Christ, for "there is none other name given under heaven among men whereby we may be saved." God bless you.

Plan for Rural American Type Home Offers All Modern Conveniences

YOUR HOME TODAY TOMORROW

by W. Wadsworth Wood

The solid home-like house illustrated would be as appropriate amid the sand dunes of Cape Cod as in the mountains of Virginia. The design is typical American farm-house, yet it offers every modern convenience to be found in much larger dwelling.

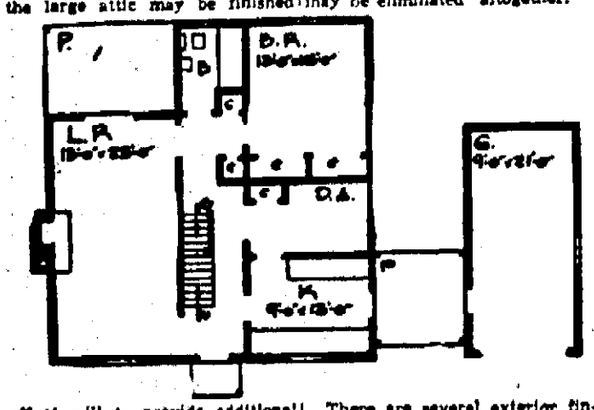
From a structural standpoint, the house is economical. It is rectangular in shape, may be built with or without a basement, and the large attic may be finished off at will to provide additional bedrooms and baths.

The interior arrangement is excellent, as it presents a very large living room with doors opening out to a porch or terrace in the kitchen-dining room, a large bedroom with unusually ample closet space, and a full bathroom.

A covered passageway connects house and garage, and serves as a pleasant area for informal meals out of doors.

The kitchen arrangement shown may be altered so that the dining area is increased in size, and the closet shown in the dining area may be eliminated altogether.



There are several exterior finishes which would look well on this house. Shingles, clapboard, board-and-batten or flush siding would be equally effective. The roof may be finished with wood shingles, asbestos shingles or strip-roofing.

At very little additional cost, the garage may be built to hold two cars or increased in size to accommodate a workshop or tool-room.

Any of the modern heating plants would be, acceptable, including the one-pipe furnace or the space-heater.

FIRST AID TO AILING HOUSE

—By ROGER C. WETTMAN—

"Graining" Paint

Q. Our kitchen woodwork is painted with enamel. In order to "grain" it, must this old enamel first be removed, or can we paint and grain on top of it? What type of paint is best for graining and what method should be used?

A. First dull the gloss of the old enamel by washing with a solution of trisodium phosphate (large paint store), using a cupful in a gallon of water. All traces of the solution must be thoroughly washed off; off; otherwise your new enamel will not stick. Then apply a coat of buff-colored flat wall oil paint. When dry, finish with a varnish-stain of the color that you wish. While still wet, grain the surface with a good graining tool. But I believe you would get a much more attractive effect if you refinish the woodwork to allow the natural grain of the wood to show, rather than give the paint a comb-grain finish.

Tile Flooring Marked

Q. I have a kitchen set with chrome legs that make marks on my asphalt tile floor. I have tried lacquering the chairs, but this chips and is not successful. Can you advise me how to prevent my floor from becoming marked?

A. A carpenter or handy man could make skids or runners for the chrome tubes out of maple-wood. This should protect the tile. Also, you can help save the tile surface by waxing with a no-rub type of wax. Do not use paste wax for your type of flooring.

CINCINNATI WOMAN FOUND MURDERED

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Aug. 2—The 51-year-old wife of a wealthy electrical supply firm president was found shot to death late yesterday and homicide detectives said today they still were seeking a motive for the mysterious shooting.

The body of Mrs. Durcilla M. Stroube, wife of Marlan L. Stroube, president and treasurer of the Welsbach Sales Co., was found in her home by a couple who had come to take her to a dinner party Police Capt. George Ertell reported.

She had been shot behind the right ear and was lying on the floor of a room used by her husband as a den.

Detective Sgt. William F. Burke said no gun was found near the fully clothed body and search of the home failed to disclose a weapon of any kind. There was a bullet hole in the ceiling, he said, and another through the thick carpet which covered the floor

The back door of the residence was open when the couple, Mr and Mrs Edward Korten, arrived, but police said there was no indication that thieves had gone through the house

On Mrs Stroube's hand were two large diamond rings, Sgt. Burke reported, and it appeared that she had just returned from shopping. Receipts for purchases from two downtown department stores were found in her purse and several articles, still wrapped, were in the den

Stroube, reached by police at his downtown offices, could shed no light on the shooting, Sgt. Burke said

UN ORDERS END TO JAVA WAR

Demand Dutch, Indonesians Stop Fighting in Strongest Action Yet Taken.

By The Associated Press

LAKE SUCCESS, Aug. 2—The United Nations today moved swiftly to stop the conflict in Indonesia with unprecedented orders to The Netherlands and Indonesian governments to cease hostilities immediately.

These notes were dispatches to the two governments within a few hours after last night's far-reaching security council decisions calling upon them to stop fighting and settle their disputes by arbitration or other peaceful means.

The council debated only two days before issuing the cease-fire order in the strongest action ever taken by any UN organ. The hostilities began July 20.

To enforce its decision, the council under the UN charter can pull out the most potent weapons in its arsenal—economic sanctions and severance of diplomatic relations by all 55 members and, as a last resort, "such action by air, land and sea forces as may be necessary to maintain or restore international peace and security."

The vote was 8 to 0 with Britain, France and Belgium abstaining.

Russia and the United States, the latter author of the final resolution, split only when delegates voted down a Soviet demand that Dutch and Indonesian troops be withdrawn to positions they held at the start of military operations. Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko insisted that otherwise the Dutch would have an advantage in the negotiations.

Both parties were expected to comply with the council verdict, although Dutch Ambassador Eelco N. Van Kleffens stalked out after the session with a "no comment whatsoever" statement to reporters.

In fighting a losing battle to block the move, Van Kleffens earlier advised delegates that his government hoped hostilities would cease at the earliest possible moment. "More I am not authorized to say at this time," he added.

DUTCH ARMY REPORTS MOPPING UP OPERATIONS

By The Associated Press

BATAVIA, JAVA, Aug. 2—The Dutch army announced that mopping up and consolidation were under way throughout Java today, while in Sumatra they claimed new gains in a drive southward on the Medan front.

These reports were contained in a communique issued just after news reached this Dutch colonial capital that the United Nations security council would ask both the Dutch and the Indonesian republic to cease hostilities in progress since July 20.

The Republicans by their own admission were anticipating intensification of the Dutch push toward their capital of Jogjakarta in south central Java.

wished they were running again on South Main street. According to the boys the street is of brick with patches of paving and the going is anything but smooth.

In the trials yesterday with two other cars, both Lowell and David came out in the lead. It is doubtful, however, if they will race with the same cars in today's run. Lowell's racer bears the No. 1 and David's No. 2. The boys explained that they had been inspected first because they were from out of town.

Richwood Car Entered

The majority of the approximate 125 races are from Columbus and suburbs with the exception of Dick Moore, 14, of Richwood, winner of the Marysville finals, and Elwood Davis, 12, of Marysville, junior division winner, who are also entered.

The Marion entries proved themselves to be veteran drivers yesterday when they guided their cars down the runway without mishap. Several met with difficulty on the course and at least one was damaged extensively, Lowell reported, that he doubts if it can be repaired in time to compete today.

The young driver lost control of the racer, hit the curb then banged into a pole, damaging the front axle and the front of the car. The driver bailed out. Several turned around in circles in the street when they lost control after hitting a rough spot and tires on two or three of the cars were damaged in the trial runs.

Lowell said that although he was trailing in his trial test run, his car finally gained speed and passed the other two by about a car length at the finish line. He said it takes about two-thirds of the course before the car gathers enough speed to spurt ahead.

Today's Schedule

The first heat of the junior division was planed to start at 1:33 p. m. today, immediately following the parade of trophies, which was scheduled to be held an hour earlier. Columbus race officials hoped to have all heats completed before 5 o'clock tonight.

If one of the local drivers wins in the Columbus race today he will be sent to the state competition in Akron later in the month.

Hughes' Aide Before Probers

expense voucher he had turned in for entertaining Roosevelt Aug. 20, 1943.

Chairman Ferguson (R-Mich) said that was the same day Roosevelt, son of the late president, drew up his report of a trip to Culver City, Calif., to inspect Hughes' photo-reconnaissance plane.

Ferguson told the witness the Roosevelt report said, in effect, that Hughes' plane was the only one he had found in a nation-wide tour which met the specifications he had laid down for photo-reconnaissance flying in Europe.

The committee heard testimony yesterday that Roosevelt's report upset previous unanimous rejection of the plane by Air Corps experts and resulted in the award of a $48,500,000 contract to Hughes for 100 planes.

Denies Talking Plane

Meyer denied he had talked to Roosevelt about the plane, or its prototype, the D-2, a plywood ship.

Taking the stand for a second consecutive day in the probe into some $40,000,000 worth of wartime airplane contracts awarded Hughes, Meyer was asked to identify a long list of expense accounts extending over the years 1943-45.

The committee's listing showed a total of $5,083.79 Meyer was alleged to have reported spending to entertain Roosevelt, the son of the late president, and his friends.

Came in 1943

Many of these expenditures came in 1943, when previous witnesses have said a recommendation by Roosevelt, then an army colonel, gave a contract to Hughes to build a photo-reconnaissance plane after air corps experts had rejected the ship.

Chairman Ferguson (R-Mich) of the subcommittee handed Meyer this list together with photographs of expense account vouchers and asked Meyer to identify them.

"I'm not sure these are my records," Meyer replied.

Then after thumbing through charges for liquor, hotels, night club checks and numerous gifts, Meyer said:

"These merely said paid. It does not say that I paid them."

The list, headed "Col. Elliott Roosevelt," contained one entry, under date of Aug. 27, 1943, which said:

Dinner and Girls

"Entertained by John Meyer: dinner — Statler hotel — $76.00. Girls at hotel (late) $50.00.

William P. Rogers ,committee counsel, told reporters the listing included wording, in Meyer's handwriting, from expense vouchers now in the committee's possession.

The entertainment for young Roosevelt, who was represented in testimony yesterday to have effected a reversal of an Air Corps decision not to purchase a photo-reconnaissance plane manufactured by Hughes, also included entries for Faye Emerson, now Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt.

Meyer previously has testified in closed sessions of the committee that he introduced Miss Emerson, a movie actress, to the son of the late president.

Nylons for Gifts

One entry in the committee's compilation under the "Col. Roosevelt" heading for Aug. 25, 1943, said:

"Entertained by John Meyer:

"(Faye Emerson)—$7.50.

"Nylon hose for present — $132.00.

"Cash to travel home—$20.00."

In December, 1944, the listing showed, Meyer claimed to have paid $159.41 to a plane pilot, Paul Franklin, "for services rendered Col. Roosevelt wedding party" in a four day trip to Valle, Ariz. Roosevelt married Miss Emerson on Dec. 3, 1944.

The committee listed 35 accounts turned in by Meyer, most of them for expenditures entertaining Colonel Roosevelt and his friends during 1943 and 1944, but some of them extending into 1945.

Among those listed by Meyer as guests at the parties, along with Roosevelt, were Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. William Powell, Lt. Col. John Hoover, Patricia Clark, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Boettiger, Mrs. James Roosevelt and Mrs. John Roosevelt.

Same Year Contract Was Let

According to Meyer's vouchers, as placed in evidence, he spent a total of $2,080.40 in entertaining Roosevelt and his friends in 1943. That was the year in which the late president's son reputedly convinced the war department it should give Hughes the contract for the photo reconnaissance plane.

In 1944, Meyer listed expenditures of $2,304.74 for parties for Roosevelt and his friends, with $698.65 spent in 1945.

Meyer's entertainment of Roosevelt began in August, 1943, the expense vouchers showed.

One of the early vouchers under the Roosevelt listing, dated Aug. 22, read:

"Dinner party—Monte Carlo club—$163.00.

"Dinner—Leon and Eddies — $78.00.

"Presents for 2 girls—$75.00."

Meyer has testified in closed sessions that he paid New York and Hollywood girls as much as $125 to go to dinner with him and his guests. He said he often gave them expensive gifts, sometimes cash.

Asked To Name Officers

The records were introduced as Ferguson called on Meyer to name the Army officers and government officials he took night clubbing in Hughes' behalf.

This was the tack taken by a senate investigation as it moved into the sixth day of an inquiry into $40,000,000 worth of contracts awarded to Hughes and Henry J. Kaiser.

With Meyer on the stand, Ferguson told a reporter he wants the witness to identify all of his entertainment expense accounts "with all names."

"I don't want to smear anybody, but this fellow testified that he spent this money," the Michigan senator said, referring to previous testimony given by Meyer in closed sessions on the senate war investigating committee.

To Probe Roosevelt

The name of Elliott Roosevelt bulked large in that testimony and Ferguson said the committee "will follow through with all angles on Elliott Roosevelt."

Meyer also listed Secretary of Interior Krug, Gov. Mon Wallgren of Washington and many high Army officers as among those he entertained. Krug has denied being at some of the parties where Meyer said the cabinet member was present.

Although the entertainment angle held the spotlight today, there was a promise of further fireworks when Chairman Brewster (R-Me) of the full committee and Hughes line up across the committee table.

Hughes announced last night that he will leave Los Angeles Monday on a two-day flight here in time to appear before the committee Wednesday.

"In case Senator Brewster is interested," Hughes said in a statement distributed by his publicity office, "I have gone away for the weekend to get a little rest."

The statement came as a deputy United States marshal, armed with a subpoena for Hughes' appearance "forthwith" before the committee, sought the plane manufacturer in Los Angeles.

Polio Cases Reported Lower by 50 Per Cent

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 2 — Dr. John D. Porterfield, III, state health director, reported today 11 additional cases of poliomyelitis had been reported, but the total for the summer was running about half of last year's incidence.

To the first of July, Dr. Porterfield said, 21 cases had been reported in the state, with 40 additional since that time. This total of 61 compared with 113 cases reported to July 29 last year.

The 11 latest cases included one in Hamilton, three in Cuyahoga, three in Summit, three in Franklin and one in Darke.

Woman Injured In Truck Accident

Injuries suffered by Miss Jane Thomas of 477 South Main street in a truck, pedestrian accident Friday at 1:30 p. m. were not serious, hospital attendants said today. Miss Thomas was hit by a gravel truck, driven by James L. Allen of 466 Van Buren street, on Main street just south of the Center street intersection.

It was thought at first her injuries were severe, but she was released from City hospital after treatment of abrasions of the upper left arm, a skinned right elbow, bruised left thigh and a slight injury on the back of her head.

GM BOOST IN PRICE SEEN SETTING TREND

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, Aug. 2—Automobile circles wondered today whether a two to six per cent boost in car prices by General Motors Corp. was the beginning of a new price spiral in the industry.

There was considerable uncertainty whether Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp., chief rivals of General Motors, would follow the price hike announced by GM Friday.

However, unconfirmed reports circulated through the industry that at least one other manufacturer was prepared to announce price increases shortly.

General Motors upped its price tags from $57 to $166 on all five passenger car models and on Chevrolet trucks.

President Walter P. Reuther, whose CIO United Auto Workers bargain for 220,000 General Motors production workers, termed the price increases "another large stride down the inflationary road leading to depression and mass unemployment."

A wage increase to the union last April was cited by GM President C. E. Wilson as one of the factors influencing the increased price of cars. He estimated the wage increase upped the company's operating costs by 12 per cent.

Other factors, Wilson said, included price increases in steel, pig iron and other materials used in car making.

The auto executive asserted that General Motors had exhausted its stocks of these materials purchased at former prices and was forced to replenish them with materials which now cost more.

TRAIN

26 stops between Lima and Jersey City for the next six days.

Cars Win Approval

The steady stream of visitors "oh'ed" and "ah'ed" at the modern interiors of the three exhibition coaches as they passed through.

The first, a coach car, was painted a light tan with green ceiling. Heavy metal venetian blinds with green tapes were installed on the extra-wide glass windows. The upholstered double seats were designed with a curved contour were covered with a vertical tufted fabric. Both seats and the rubber-covered footrests were adjustable. Floor covering was inlaid green and brown linoleum.

The ladies' lounge included a green upholstered lounge seat and well-lighted mirrors. The men's lounge located at the opposite end of the coach had the seat upholstered in green leather. Individual seat lights were placed on the under side of the chrome luggage racks, directly over the seats and were individually controlled.

The entrance to the dining car, painted in a warm grey-green with narrow red ceiling trim, had bronze dome lights with a small half-moon glass bowl covering the bulb. The kitchen, all metal, is placed as usual at the entrance of the car. A small serving table stands in the slight jog at the entrance to the dining room proper. The walls were a light green, the floor was covered with a thick red carpet extending from wall to wall. On the 10 tables, covered with snowy white linen, a small glass vase with two red roses decorated each table. Chairs, with accommodations for 40 persons, were upholstered in green leather. A metal and glass partition extending to a height of perhaps 5½ feet divided the dining section from the lounge part which held 10 easy chairs. The chairs were in alternate colors of red and green with chrome ashstands placed between each. Light fixtures for the individual tables and lounge seats were of tubular frosted glass.

Pullman Details

The pullman car was painted a light grey with a red trim. Seats were of a corded upholstery. Individual lights were frosted except for a clear circular spot which was placed at an angle to shine down to the seat. An oval metal table was set up to demonstrate the type used when requested by passengers. It fastens to a metal bracket placed just under each window.

Each pullman car contains six open sections, six roomettes and four double bedrooms. Three restrooms are in each. One lounge each for ladies and men, at either end., and a small lavatory and stool for each are placed in the center of the coach.

Berths in the open sections unfold from the top, and a stationary metal ladder is attached to each. The berths in the roomettes open from directly behind the sectional seats. A basin, individual covered stool, place for thermos of water and clothes compartment is in each one. A special compartment for shoes is also handy with an outlet into the coach aisle where the porter can remove the shoes, shine and replace them. If anything more is needed a passenger has only to press a small chime button to summon the porter.

The double bedrooms can accommodate four persons by making up the lower seats placed on either side of the compartment and the upper berths. Basins and covered stools are installed on either side of the space at the center as well as clothes closets. This arrangement is made so that if necessary the metal folding door can be closed through the center in case it is necessary to make the compartment for four into two double rooms.

Amateur photographers could be seen snapping pictures of the exhibition train during the entire two-hour stay here while it was parked along the Erie freight house on West Center street

Premature Infant Revives on Funeral Table, Later Dies

By The Associated Press

BECKLEY, W. Va., Aug. 2—A two-pound baby boy, who had gasped his way back to life on a funeral parlor table only 12 hours before, died in a hospital incubator early today.

The tiny son of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Warden was born Thursday, prematurely at six months, in a two-room home near Coal City. The baby died shortly after midnight in Raleigh general hospital.

Yesterday afternoon the infant had been given up for dead after nurses reported to doctors that he had ceased breathing and was turning cold.

Douglas Bryant, embalmer for the Rose funeral home, reported that he began preparation of the body for burial a short time later and pressed upon the baby's chest.

The infant gasped and began to cry, Bryant said. The embalmer and his assistant, Steve Hilton, continued to apply chest pressure. At the same time they packed hot cotton pads around the little body to restore blood circulation.

When the baby began to cry even louder, they hurried him to the hospital, where he was placed in an incubator. Doctors said that at that time a slight throat pulsation was the only sign of life.

They added that the tiny heart was beating only at the rate of 60 to 70 pulsations a minute, instead of the normal 140.

There was little hope even then that the baby would live. Dr. Fred Richmond explained that only on rare occasions babies born at six months survive, and he said death was only a matter of time.

auto union since the UAW's recognition strike against the family-owned automobile empire in 1939.

The UAW-CIO came out of that clash with recognition as production workers' bargaining agent from the late Henry Ford, then company president, and with a contract requiring union membership of all such workers.

The union yesterday turned down the "good faith" proposal of Henry Ford II, which he had offered as a compromise to the UAW's demand for protection against lawsuits under the Taft-Hartley act.

Thomas Thompson, president of the big Ford Rouge Local 600 and chairman of the union negotiating committee, charged Ford's proposal would give "power to crush and wipe out our union" to the labor disputes umpire.

Mt. Gilead Man Charged With Reckless Driving

Paul C. Davis, 26, of near Mt. Gilead was charged with reckless driving by the state patrol following an accident on route 95 near the Claridon schoolhouse yesterday. Davis was driver of a car which hit one driven by Mrs. Velma Speidel, 38, of Edison at 9:30 p. m., which was parked partially off the highway with a flat tire. Patrolmen say Davis could have avoided hitting the Speidel car. Davis has been cited to appear in municipal court Monday morning. Both cars were damaged in the accident.

500 Twins Expected At Columbus Meeting

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 2—Seeing double will be no task in Columbus next weekend.

More than 500 pairs of twins are expected at that time to attend the 13th annual convention of the International Twins association under the auspices of the Ohio branch, the Buckeye Twins club.

An all-twin floor show following a banquet next Saturday night, and a parade of twins to the state house grounds the following day will highlight the convention.

In addition, there will be various contests, such as the youngest pair of twins, the oldest, the most handsome, and the family with the largest number of twins on hand for the meeting.

4 Calls Answered By Marion Firemen

Four runs were made by the city fire department Friday afternoon and this morning.

The fire causing the greatest property loss occurred in a used lumber storage lot on Hane avenue. An estimated $125 loss was sustained when the lumber became ignited. Cause of the blaze was undetermined. Firemen believe it was caused by children playing with matches.

Last night at 9:10 the department was called to North Prospect street in front of No. 523, where a truck was burning. It was owned by Arthur Callari of Upper Sandusky and loss was estimated at $10. Gasoline from the carburetor dripped onto the hot manifold, causing the fire.

The two other calls resulted in the departments making futile runs.

At 7:01 this morning an alarm was turned in from a downtown alarm box at the corner of Main and Center streets. Engines one and four and the hook-and-ladder were sent out for this one, but no fire and no sender-of-the-alarm were found by the department.

P. J. Grayville of 218 Sharp street thought that his home was burning and called firemen at 4:57 p. m. yesterday. Smoke from a neighbor's furnace, which was being burned out, had filtered into the Grayville house.

DOCTOR

clipped the metal shaft of the glasses the physician was wearing.

Besides the son, Dr. Obrist is survived by his widow, Corinne, and a daughter, Joan, 16.

Citizens of this city of 42,000 persons were as puzzled as investigators.

Dr. Obrist was not alone prominent, they said many times over, but was personally popular and the father of two personable children now active in high school.

Unfortunately Dr. Obrist had a speech impediment, they said, which prevented him from entering the armed services during the war. This fact, they explained, made the doctor bitterly unhappy and to atone he worked terrifically long hours during the war. He was chief of staff at Portsmouth's Mercy hospital in that period.

For 19 years he had practiced in this river city, the first years with his physician father. He was married in 1928 to a nurse he met in Cincinnati General hospital during his internship.

No breath of irregularity which might account for the ambush slaying has ever touched the professional or private life of Dr. Obrist, investigators emphasied.

Dr. Obrist, prominent in Portsmouth civic affairs, took his premedical instruction at Ohio State university and his medical work at the University of Cincinnati.

LEGION TOLD HUGE RESERVES NEEDED

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Aug. 2—Universal military training and an "M-day" force of 1,750,000 men offer the "only solution to the problem of adequate national security," says Maj. Gen. Manton S. Eddy Jr., chief of public information for the war department.

Gen. Eddy, who speaks today at the opening session of the annual convention of the American Legion's Ohio department, said in an interview last night that "in another war comes, the United States will be the first to be attacked."

Gen. Eddy said this country could not support a standing army of 1,750,000 men.

"It would be a physical and economic impossibility," he declared. "Civilian components of reserve units must form the greater part of this M-day force."

As the Legion convention swung into opening day sessions, scores of delegates were missing because of a housing shortage.

Reservations Cancelled

Some 800 room reservations were cancelled yesterday as the vanguard of more than 3,000 delegates began arriving. Only 1,000 hotel reservations were available and convention officials said they could have used twice that many.

Don Schoeppe of Warren, Ohio department commander, said that because of the shortage of rooms many delegates would not be able to attend the convention and a number of posts would be without representation.

One unit of the Ohio department, the Eight and Forty of the ladies auxiliary, concluded its annual meeting last night with election of Mrs. Anne McCudden of Cincinnati, to the top state office of departmentale chapeau.

Other elected were: Mrs. Hazel Russell, Alliance, first demi chapeau; Mrs. Anna Kreuger, Toledo, second demi chapeau; Mrs. Ruth Patterson, Lima, L'Aumonier; Mrs. Frances Breth, Chillicothe, la concierge, and Mrs. Norma Fuller, Cleveland, L'archiviste.

FOREMEN ASK RULING ON NEW LABOR LAW

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2—A suit by the Foremen's Association of America, filed in federal district court, seeks to have the Taft-Hartley labor act declared unconstitutional.

The complaint, filed late yesterday, is aimed particularly at a provision of the act which eliminates the obligation of employers to bargain collectively with unions of supervisory employes.

The union said this is discriminatory and further contended that these features also are unconstitutional:

Government authority to obtain injunctions delaying strikes affecting public health and safety.

Curbs on strikes arising out of jurisdictional disputes.

Curtailment of certain political expenditures by unions.

The suit was filed against the national labor relations board and seeks to stop the board from dismissing union petitions under the provisions of the Taft-Hartley act.

It said the NLRB already has rejected some petitions for collective bargaining recognition although most provisions of the act aren't effective until Aug. 22.

WHEAT

200 carloads of wheat in a normal season, Mr. Cooper said.

In neighboring communities, elevator space was also approaching a premium. It was reported from Upper Sandusky yesterday that receipts had reached record amounts with elevators swamped for space. Storage space was filled with some of the overflow being diverted to Marion.

Reason given by operators there was said to be that they were unable to obtain enough cars to move the grain. One operator said he was receiving one car for each 10 or 15 ordered.

The situation here at the Marion Grain and Supply is good in that respect, officials said today. Cars have been coming in sufficient number to keep about "one step ahead" of receipts.

Western Union Plays at Ohio

Randolph Scott Starred; Jean Rogers Has Lead in "Back Lash."

"Western Union" starring Randolph Scott and Robert Young and "Back Lash" with Jean Rogers and Richard Travis is now playing at the Ohio theater and will continue through Monday.

Zane Grey's "Western Union," a drama of the frontier west, is a thrilling epic of Indians, romance and blazing guns. The adventure story tells of the fierce battle to build the first transcontinental telegraph over a country infested with renegades and hostile Indian tribes.

Other members of the outstanding supporting cast are Dean Jagger, Virginia Gilmore, John Carradine and Slim Summerville. No frontier story is complete without romance and Miss Gilmore fills the romantic bill.

"Back Lash" is a mystery-drama that tells the story of the adventures of a woman who is the unknowing object of her husband's cold fury. Through a cleverly designed web of circumstances engineered by the husband, John Eldredge, Jean Rogers, cast as the wife, finds herself accused of murder—a murder that was never committed.

"I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now" starring Mark Stevens and June Haver will open Tuesday and continue for 10 days.

The technicolor musical is based on the life of Joe E. Howard, America's most romantic troubadour who roamed the country at the turn of the century singing his many hit-ballads.

Stevens cast as Joe Howard portrays the troubadour-composer singing the songs that kept people whistle-happy. A number of Howard songs, including the title song, are heard in the picture. Miss Haver is cast as the girl Howard passes up only to wish later that he hadn't been so hasty.

MEEKER 4-H CLUB MEETS

The Meeker Homemaker's 4-H club met at the home of Mrs. Floyd Wallace Wednesday afternoon. Members sewed and finished various projects at the meeting. A discussion was held about judging the projects at the Aug. 9 meeting at club advisor Mrs. Clifton Wenig's home. Maxine Alexander and Carol Sue Cookston demonstrated the making of harvest salad. The next meeting will be held Wednesday at the home of Miss Marlene Garver.

JUNE HAVER dances her way into Mark Stevens' heart in "I Wonder Whose Kissing Her Now," the technicolor musical which opens at the Ohio theater Tuesday for a 10-day engagement.

Colbert and MacMurray Star At Palace in "The Egg and I"

"The Egg and I," starring Claudette Colbert and Fred MacMurray, now showing through Wednesday at the Palace theater, is the movie adaptation of the best seller by Betty MacDonald.

The story tells of the experiences which befall a young honeymoon couple when they try to settle down on a chicken ranch on the west coast. The first of a series of mishaps beset the city-bred couple when they attempt to reorganize their cosmopolitan habits to conform to the rural standards.

Heading the supporting cast are Marjorie Main and Percy Kilbride, who portray Ma and Pa Kettle, the nearest neighbors to the chicken-raising MacDonalds.

A special feature, "Passport to Nowhere," one of the This Is America series, is billed with "The Egg and I." The new release brings to the public controversial press statements and varying reports on the European displaced persons problem.

"Dear Ruth" with Joan Caulfield, William Holden and Edward Arnold is scheduled to open Thursday and continue through Wednesday. This is the movie version of a Broadway hit which was presented several months ago on the stage of the Palace in Marion.

The film plot revolves about the tangled and hilarious web woven by the precocious 16-year-old daughter of Edward Arnold who has been writing love letters to an unknown soldier in her sister's name. Joan Caulfield is cast as the unsuspecting sister, Ruth.

"Courage of Lassie" and cartoons will be shown at the Saturday morning kiddie show.

Loretta Young, Gary Cooper In Picture at State

Gary Cooper and Loretta Young in "Along Came Jones" and Fay Holden and Geverly Simmons in "Little Miss Big" is scheduled to open tomorrow at the State theater for a two-day run.

The double bill for Tuesday and Wednesday will be "Two Smart People" starring John Hodiak and Lucille Ball and "Terror by Night" with Basil Rathbone and Nigel Bruce.

Opening Thursday and continuing through Saturday will be "Brute Man" with Tom Niel and Jane Adams and "Pioneer Justice" featuring Lash LaRue and Fuzzy St. John.

BRIDE-ELECT FETED

GALION—A pre-nuptial party for Miss Helen Baker whose marriage to Paul Frederick Edler will take place Sunday at the First Lutheran church here, was given this week by Mrs. Eugene Sherer and Mrs. Albert Wyrick of Crestline at the home of Mrs. Sherer in Galion. Prizes were presented to Miss Jean Plack, Mrs. Steele Baker and Mrs. Harry Sherer.

Van Johnson In Marion Film

Starred with June Allyson in "High Barbaree," Starting Tomorrow.

"High Barbaree," starring Van Johnson and June Allyson and "Ladies' Man" with Eddie Bracken and Cass Daley, will open tomorrow at the Marion theater and continue through Monday.

The first is the story of a love between a Navy flier and a nurse who reach their goal, which at one time seemed unattainable. The story is told in a series of flashbacks.

"Ladies' Man," a comedy interwoven with sparkling melodies, tells of an Oklahoma farmer who suddenly finds himself rich and takes a trip to New York.

"Are These Our Children," with Lyle Talbot and Helen Vinson, and "Where Are Your Children," with Jackie Cooper and Patricia Morrison," will be shown Tuesday and Wednesday.

Both features give portrayals of how parents willingly add to the growing problem of juvenile delinquency.

Bill Boyd in "Hoppys Holiday," and "Little Miss Broadway" with Jean Porter and John Shelton, are the double feature which starts Thursday and continues through Saturday.

William Boyd again takes up his role as Hopalong Cassidy in a story of adventures which happen on his long-delayed holiday. The second feature is an expose of the scandal photo racket and its blackmailing leaders.

Movie Pictures Drama Of Displaced Persons

A vivid picturization of the displaced persons tragedy in Europe is shown in "Passport to Nowhere," a special feature on the current Palace theater program. It was presented here for the first time Thursday night and will continue through Aug. 6. The scenes are recent, having been filmed only about a month ago. "Passport to Nowhere" is the latest of RKO's "This Is America" series, produced by Frederic Ullman Jr.

BRUINS WIN BATTLE OF EXTRA BASE HITS AND BAD BOOTS, 7-4

Comedy of Errors Turns Into Tragedy for Richmond Roses

By DON BURTON

The Marion Cubs won the battle of extra hits and the comedy of errors at Lincoln park last night, 7-4, to go one up on the Richmond Roses in the present series.

The Marionites got 10 safe blows for a total of 20 bases off Paul Eifert and Bob Gordon. The Roses were not far behind with nine safeties for 16 sacks off Bert Flamini.

Two triples by Manager Nelson Burbrink and another by Bobzean plus two doubles by Jim Forbes and two base hits by Dwight Maxhimer and John Smith accounted for the 20 bases.

Richmond Hitting Hard

Triples by Bob Pottenger and Vince Pankovits along with doubles by Seth Johnson and Jack Regan accounted for visitors' total.

Bert Flamini, Marion southpaw won his sixth game against no losses. Bert struckout 13 batters and had two strikes on most of the others. Jack Cooney was a victim of Bert's fast ball four times.

He allowed only one hit, a double by Johnson in the second, until the sixth frame when the Roses tagged him for a total of four.

Paul Eifert who started for the Hoosiers was hit hard although his support was none too good. Dale Craig did most of the damage with four miscues before he was relieved in the fifth round. Roberts went to third and Bob Verrier to short. Verrier also kicked his only chance while playing the short field.

In the late innings the locals began to kick the ball around also. Manager Burbrink, Gene Bobzean, Roy Hollingshead and Jim Forbes came up with only red faces instead of the ball, once each.

Reliefer Proves Effective

Bob Gordon who relieved Eifert during a Marion uprising in the third shut the door in the faces of the Cubs although he allowed six hits and walked two the remainder of the route.

Two Marion runs were tallied in the first when Burbrink got the first of his two triples with Smith and Maxhimer on base.

Another pair of Marion runs scored in the second. Bobzean started with a triple and scored on the first of Jim Forbes' two doubles. Forbes scored when a bounder by Flamini took a bad hop over the head of Cooney at second.

The trio of Marion runs in the third when a triple by Burbrink and a walk to Shuford were followed by Bobzean's fielders choice and an error by Craig, followed by a balk called on Gordon as Hollingshead started to steal second.

Richmond Scores Thrice

The Roses got single run in the second when Johnson doubled to left after Brady walked. The Roses scored three runs in the sixth. Triples by Pottenger and Pankovits, on which Shuford fell down, and singles by Verrier and Johnson plus and error by Bobzean.

The teams finish the series tonight with Jim Sabens scheduled to hurl for the Cubs and Ken St. Pierre expected to get the nod from Manager Rex Carr of Richmond.

The Muncie Packers are to come here tomorrow for a doubleheader with the first game in the afternoon at 2 and the other at 8. The Packers will stay over and play Monday and Tuesday.

What's Bruin?

The big boss of the Chicago Cub farm system, Jack Sheehan, was in the stands last night. He came into the park about the fifth inning.

Up to the time Sheehan made his appearance near the dugout the Cubs had played errorless ball. They committed four while the Cub farm director looked on. Even the always reliable Jim Forbes dropped a throw at first base. Forbes also held the ball while a Richmond player took second base with a runner on third. Flamini had Gordon picked off first when the play started.

Jim Forbes with a batting average of only 216 is next to Manager Burbrink among the Cubs in runs knocked in with 53. Burbrink is leading the league with 77 driven across the plate.

The absence of rain in the last week has caused the ground to become very hard at Lincoln park. Ground balls in the infield are taking bad hops and balls hit to the outfield, especially right field, are bouncing badly and high.

Bob Shuford was set to catch a drive from the bat of Pankovits in last night's game and could have doubled Bob Verrier at first had he caught the ball. Bob Shuford fell flat on the ground and the drive went for a triple.

Cubs Gain Game As Dayton Whips Zanesville, 5 to 1

By The Associated Press

A record crowd of more than 4,000 turned out at Zanesville last night for a Shrine crippled children's benefit game in the Ohio State league and saw the league-leading Zanesville Dodgers held to four hits by Gene Starr of the Dayton Indians.

The Indians opened with a three run barrage in the first and the Dodgers were held scoreless until the eighth. Dayton added two more runs to win, 5-1.

Marion's 7-4 win over the Richmond Roses pulled the Cubs to within seven games of the leaders, while Muncie's 3-2 loss to Lima dropped the Packers into a third place tie with Dayton.

The Springfield at Newark contest which the Giants won 16-11 was a free-scoring affair with three six-run or better frames, and 13 runs coming home in the eighth. Springfield scored seven and Newark six times in that inning.

The six Newark scores came after Dino Cingolani, who was credited with the win, issued five walks, while the winners got their seven runs from four hits, three walks, and three Newark errors.

Games tonight: Muncie at Lima, Richmond at Marion, Dayton at Zanesville, and Springfield at Newark.

Men in Blue Overlook Card Pilot's Return After Being Chased.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 2—Quiet Eddie Dyer, gentlemanly manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, rarely gets into trouble with the diamond's dictators in blue but when he does he's as sharp as a ball player's appetite.

For evidence you can cite a recent run in with the umps in which the St. Louis skipper was given the old heave ho. Waved to the showers for conduct unbecoming a cavalry sergeant, Dyer turned up on the bench a few moments later—and stayed there the rest of the game without being challenged.

"If they couldn't see that close play," Eddie explained later, "I was certain that they wouldn't be able to see me all the way over in the dugout."

What's more, they didn't! . . .

Indians Win 5th Straight

NEW YORK, Aug. 2 — Sporting a string of five consecutive triumphs — their longest haul this year — the Cleveland Indians congregate in Yankee Stadium today for two more jousts with the league leaders.

Bob Feller and his sore thumb were supposed to start the first contest for the Tribe, and former Yankee Al Gettel, with four wins and five losses, got the second game assignment.

For the Yankees it will be Buck Newsome (4-0 since moving in from Washington) and Vic Raschi, also 4-0. Feller sampled his thumb blister in 15 minutes of throwing yesterday and pronounced himself ready.

Until yesterday, the Indians had been whipped by the Yankees for nine straight games, and if any one person could be singled out for sewing up the 4-3 win it probably would be Bryan Stephens.

Stephens got on the mound in the last of the ninth when Ed Kliemun started to weaken with two Yanks on base and none out. First off for Stephens, Johnny Lindell sacrificed, so Manager Lou Boudreau ordered an intentional pass for Phil Rizzuto, filling the bases.

Pinch Hitter Bobby Brown then bounded to Eddie Robinson, and the throw home forced Lonnie Frey. Finally George Stirnweiss flied out weakly to George Metkovich and the game was won.

PLAYS THAT COUNT

By FRANK ECK
AP Sports Editor

"A play that happened 26 years ago in the 1920 World Series is one I'll never forget," says Manager Steve O'Neill of the Detroit Tigers, "I was catching for Cleveland in the second game against Brooklyn in Ebbets Field and the Dodgers had the bases loaded with one out. We had won the first.

O'NEILL
Tigers

"The next batter hit the ball back to our pitcher who tossed to me at the plate for the second out. I tossed the ball to Bill Johnston on first but my throw hit the runner right in the middle of the back.

"The ball fell to the ground but Johnston was able to pick it up. Tommy Griffith had been on second base and tried to score on the play. He beat the throw to home but I blocked the plate with my left foot and there was no way Griffith could touch the plate.

"I tagged Griffith and the umpire called him out. It was the third out and one of the oddest double plays I've seen—pitcher to home to first base to home."

It was like a successful operation where the patient dies for the Robins beat the Indians, 3-0. They also won the next day, 2-1, for two straight.

"But when we got back to Cleveland," says O'Neill, "we won four straight to win the Series."

Reds Call On Eddie Erautt

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Aug. 2 — A youthful right-hander, who was strikeout king of the Pacific coast league last year, gets another chance today to prove that he's a starting pitcher in the majors as the Reds meet Boston in the third of their five-game series.

Redleg Manager Johnny Neun has called upon Eddie Erautt, 22-year-old Portland, Ore., boy, to face Si Johnson, veteran Boston hurler, in a Crosley Field afternoon contest.

Cincinnati split a doubleheader with the Braves yesterday, winning the 12-inning nightcap, 3-2, after Boston had taken the opener, 4-2, on five hits.

Bob Elliott, Boston third sacker, was the hitting star of the day. His two-run, sixth inning homer accounted for all of the Braves scoring in the nightcap and it duplicated his first inning clout in the opener.

The Reds came from behind to deadlock the second game in the ninth and then put together two singles and an error to score the wining run in the twelfth. Kent Peterson, the third Redleg pitcher of the contest, who held the Braves in check during the three extra innings, was the victor.

"Bums" Join Blackwell, Cards, Gustine, Giants, Bosox in Grief

By The Associated Press

Brooklyn's 13-game win spree is the latest casualty of baseball's "heartbreak week" which also saw the end of Cincinnati Ewell Blackwell's 16-game string and Pittsburgh Frank Gustine's 21-game hitting streak.

Add to these disappointments the collapse of the Boston Red Sox who went into a four-game losing tailspin after seven straight victories and the end on Monday of the New York Giants' consecutive game home run streak at 15.

Although the St. Louis Cardinals pulled out of their downward plunge by thumping the Phillies last night, 6-1, it might very well be that the Red Birds' pennant hopes also died during the week in three straight defeats at the hands of the Dodgers.

Cubs Stop Brooks

Chicago ended the Brooks' longest success story since 1924 with a 10-8 triumph engineered by catcher Clyde McCullough's two-run homer in the ninth inning.

The Cubs knocked out Hatten in the sixth and finally tied the score in the seventh inning of a free-hitting contest.

Dave Koslo was in superb form as he lefthanded the Giants to a 2-1 edge over Pittsburgh, striking out Hank Greenberg three times. In fact, Koslo, enroute to his 12th success, whiffed Ralph Kiner, Greenberg and Wally Westlake in succession in the second and ninth.

Murry Dickson and Whitey Kurowski teamed up on the Phils to assure St. Louis of that 6-1 edge. Dickson allowed only five hits and singled home the winning run in the fifth.

Boston Loses Ground

Boston lost ground in the race, splitting two with Cincinnati. Johnny Sain hurled the Braves to a 4-2 edge in the opener with the help of Bob Elliott's two-run homer in the first inning. Another homer by Elliott with a man on failed to decide the finale which went to Cincy in 12 innings, 3-2, on a single by Clyde Vollmer, an error by Frank McCormick and Bobby Adams' game-winning single.

In the American league, after the New York Yankees had opened the door by bowing to Cleveland in a day game, 4-3, the Detroit Tigers knocked off the Boston Red Sox in a night game, 3-1, leaving the Yanks 12 games ahead.

One bad inning, the eighth, when St. Louis scored twice, ruined Philadelphia's Dick Fowler, who struck out eight men but bowed to the Brown's Bob Muncrief, 4-1. Vern Stephens' single to left was the payoff blow, driving home Johnny Bernardino and Paul Lehner.

Washington, did some streak-smashing of its own, scoring its first home win of the year over Chicago, 8-1, behind the seven-hit pitching of Early Wynn, who registered his 12th victory.

The Prospect Legion softball team defeated the Marion Power Shovel nine, 5-2, at Prospect last night before 750 fans. The two runs by M.P.S. in the fifth were the first time any team has scored on Bob Gabriel, Prospect tosser, in 24 innings. Fritz Walters got three hits in four trips for Marion. Stanley Hoover of Prospect clouted a single, double and home run.

In another contest Borean of Columbus lost to the Veterans Administration nine 4 to 1.

LOVE'S PERILOUS PATH

BY ADELE GARRISON

DESPITE the poignant anxiety that had been mine for Mary, lifted only such a short time before by the tlephone message from her aunt, Harriet Braithwaite, in Detroit, I could cheerfully have shaven her until her teeth rattled for speaking of the bars on the windows in the hearing of her husband.

We have taken such infinite pains to keep from Noel the fear which was ours that Mary would take her own life, as she had threatened when she found she could not remember her lines in my play and feared the total loss of her memory, that her speech about the bars on the windows, with its implied revelation that they had been put there on her account, exasperated me to the nth degree.

Noel is quick on the uptake, and I was not surprised to see his eyes open wide in surprise, and to hear him say anxiously, "Why, Mary! You sound as though those bars concerned you personally. What do they have to do with you?"

There was something else beside surprise in his voice. There was the beginning of suspicion, and I knew it must be smothered at once.

"The bars have nothing at all to do with Mary," I said, making my voice purposefully cross and annoyed, "except that she evidently does not like to see them. But she isn't alone in that. They make me shiver every time I look at them. But you know, Mary, for I've told you repeatedly, that those bars cannot come down until my father gives the word. He asked Noel's father, as owner of the hotel, to have them put up on the windows of this apartment of the Philip Venitzen apartment, of your own apartment and of Dicky's studio and mine.

A Temporary Danger

"He said that he was having them put up because of a temporary danger—a great one—threatening Olga and anyone connected with her. When he is fully satisfied that the danger is over, he will give your father-in-law the word at once. Until then, I am afraid you will have to put up with them. I am sorry, darling, but you know my father."

Mary pouted then smiled at me and I saw relief in her eyes, together with consternation at her own carelessness, which I saw she had realized at my reply to her.

"Do I know Grandpa Spencer!" she retorted. "He could give any o fthose old what's-their-names—"

She paused uncertainly, and her uncle grinned at her.

"Do you mean 'Medes' by any chance?" he queried.

"Yep. Those are the birds." Mary answered, while I shot an uneasy glance at Faith, who I knew, slavishly copied every out-of-the ordinary word of her idolized cousin's vocabulary.

"He could give any Mede that ever Meded a four hundred yard handicap and beat him in a quarter mile race," she finished, and her uncle gave a raucous laugh.

An Endurance Contest

"Shades of Jesse Owens!" he ejaculated. "And besides, Brat, you're getting mixed up. You mean an endurance contest for the obstinacy crown not a race."

"It makes no never minds to me!" Mary retorted. "I just mean Grandpa Spencer is an old stone wall, so I suppose I've got to stand those bars until he says they can come off."

"We might taken another apartment, or move to another hotel," Noel suggested hopefully, and I rallied my wits to counter that proposal.

"How would that help matters Noel?" I asked. "My father is determined to guard any of Olga's family or close friends with all the resources of the government intelligence service. You would find bars on your new windows as fast as they could be put on after my father's go-ahead signal."

You might just as well sit down and count your losses, Noel," Mary said with a note of derision in her voice. "When Auntie Madge relays Grandpa Spencer's orders there's a deadly note of finality which you can't buck. I ought to know. I've been listening to 'em since I was in pinafores."

Noel Doesn't Mind

"I don't mind, sweetheart," Noel said. "I don't care if I'm walled up in solid concrete as long as you're better. I just didn't want you to be bothered."

"Did you ever know me when I wasn't hot and bothered?" Mary retorted jauntily. "Don't let that bother you. I'll just take what I get and like it."

"But I don't like it!" Noel protested. "However, if it's an edict of Mr. Spencer's, I suppose it will have to stand."

I drew a deep breath of relief. The suspicion had gone out of Noel's voice. Once more Mary's secret was safe until she could tell it herself to her husband. And he never need know the real reason for the bars being put on the windows.

"If you'll excuse me," Katharine said, sounding the practical note that was needed, "I'll just go in and lay the breakfast table for you love-birds. Room Service will be knocking at the door before we know it."
